

FENG SHUI WIND CHIME

In Feng Shui, wind chimes are used to attract good luck and good fortune to the home.

To create a wind chime for your home, follow these simple steps:

What you need:

- Shells of different sizes with holes in them
- Small jingle bells
- Beads of different sizes, shapes and materials (wood, clay, etc.)
- Small stones
- Plastic container lid (like from the top of margarine or oatmeal)
- String or nylon thread
- glue
- yarn

What to do:

1. Select 8 to 10 items that you'd like to hang on your wind chime (shells, beads, stones, etc.).
2. Tie lengths of string or nylon thread (about 6 inches each) through holes in your objects. If your beads or shells are small, you can hang a few from each string.
3. For heavier objects, such as stones, wrap the string or thread around the object a few times, and rub glue over the string to hold it in place.
4. Poke small holes through the top of the plastic lid, all around the outside edge. Pull the pieces of string through the holes and tie a knot at each end.
5. Punch two holes in the center of the top of the lid.
6. Loop a piece of yarn through the holes and tie a knot. This is how you will hang your wind chime.
7. Now, hang your wind chime inside by a window or wherever it can catch a breeze!

MAYA & MIGUEL and logos are trademarks of Scholastic Inc.
© 2004 Scholastic Entertainment Inc. All rights reserved.

